*Sara Simpson was nominated by her colleagues: "She is extremely passionate about education and it shows! You will often hear her talking about new and improved educational practices that she wants to implement in her classrooms. She is always going above and beyond to make her students have the best experiences possible. In the last few weeks she hosted a back to the school PLS picnic for her social skills class and parents, took on a new prep a day before school started, and started a Special Olympics club after school".
